Dear Core Bank Customer,

Effective Monday, February 10, Core Bank will fully integrate all of our products onto a new banking platform. Our teams have been hard at work, planning for this conversion, diligently ensuring that every detail is considered. Please note that your current checks, ACH transactions, and Visa Debit cards will all continue to work with our new system.

Also to ease the transition, we have highlighted a few of the upcoming changes that must take place in order to fully integrate the new banking platform. Here is what you can expect:

Account number

Your account number will be changed to a converted account number. The converted account number will be a total of ten digits in length. This number will be created by your previous account number preceded by '0600' and any remaining zeros to fulfill the ten digit number requirement. Example:

- My checking account number is 1234 my converted account number is 0600001234.
- My savings account number is 456789 my converted account number is 0600456789.

Routing numbers

The permanent routing number for Core Bank will be 104001808. Please use this routing number on ACH transactions and when reordering your checks.

Note: Your current routing number 104902114 will be recognized by our system and will continue to route properly so you may update your information at your convenience.

Check reorders

You do not need to replace your existing printed checks, although you are welcome to do so. Your current checks and deposit slips will continue to function.

When you are ready to reorder checks please visit any of our branches or contact us at 402-333-9100 and we can help you order with your updated account number and routing number as described in the sections above.

CDs and IRAs

There are no changes that will occur as a result of the system conversion.

Account Access

As these account changes are processed, you will see a temporary combined daily limit of $1,000 or the lesser account balance, when trying to access an ATM or use your Visa Debit card for purchases. This temporary limit will be in effect beginning Thursday, February 6 and will conclude Monday, February 10.
